The Daily Courant.

Wedneſday, November 24. 1708

London, November 24.

YEſterday Morning early arriv'd an Expreſs from Harwich; which on Sunday Night laſt came from Oſtend in an open Boat, bringing the following News.

Oſtend, Saturday Dec. 1. N. S. The Elector of Bavaria came before Bruſſels on Friday the 23d of laſt Month, with 16 Squadrons, 36 Battallions, 14 Mortars, and 27 Cannon; and took Poſt near the Louvain Gate. He ſent in a Drummer to ſummon the Place; and M. Paſcal the Commandant (who had under him the Major Generals Murray and Wrangel with 6000 Men) return'd Anſwer, that he and his Garriſon were determin'd to defend the City to the utmoſt Extremity. The Council of State of Brabant, reſiding in Bruſſels, was aſſembled on this Occaſion, and gave out proper Orders for preventing Caballs or any Inſurrection in favour of the Enemy.

On the Refuſal of the Commandant to ſurrender, the Elector of Bavaria caus'd two Batteries to be rais'd on the Cauſey of Elſen; and the City anſwer'd their Fire from three Batteries of eight Cannon each. The Enemy having made a Breach, gave ſeveral Aſſaults; but were vigorouſly repuls'd, and in the laſt of them, being on the 27th, loſt 1500 Men, among them four Collonels.

Soon after this laſt Aſſault, M. Paſcal is ſaid to have found himſelf oblig'd by the Mutiny of the Burghers, to capitulate to ſurrender the Place on the 29th. But the Elector of Bavaria having Intelligence that the Army of the Allies had forc'd their Paſſage over the Schelde, and that Part of their Troops were advancing againſt him, rais'd the Siege the ſaid 27th late in the Evening; and leaving behind him 4 Mortars and 15 Cannon, with all his wounded Men and ſome Baggage, retir'd with great Precipitation towards Namur.

On Sunday the 25th in the Morning the Duke of Marlborough decamp'd from Rouſſelaer with the Army of the Allies; and being joyn'd by Prince Eugene, with all his Forces except 30 Battallions which he left to ſecure his Works againſt the Citadel of Liſle, advanc'd to the Schelde. On Tueſday the 27th at Break of Day, the Forces of the Allies began to lay Bridges over that River; and by three in the Afternoon they had all paſs'd it in three Columns, viz. the Right, commanded by Prince Eugene, below Tournay; the Duke of Marlborough on the Left above Audenarde; and the Hereditary Prince of Heſſe Caſſel in the Centre at Pont d' Eſpires.

The Enemy, who lay intrench'd to defend the Paſſage of the ſaid River, were broken and defeated. 70 Pieces of the Cannon which they had plac'd in their Intrenchments, with all their Pontons and heavy Baggage, were taken; and 17 of their Battallions were made Priſoners of War. Part of the Enemy making off towards Tournay, were purſued by Prince Eugene; and the reſt retiring towards Ghent, were follow'd by the Duke of Marlborough, whom the Accounts we receiv'd laſt Night left encamp'd at Gavre within two Leagues and a half of Ghent.

Advice is juſt now brought in from Bruges, that the Enemy have caus'd all the Boats there to be ſiez'd, in Order to retire to Newport.

Six Regiments, which have been ſome Days embark'd for Anwerp, are ſtill detain'd here by contrary Winds.

Whereas on the 7th of October laſt, a Box, with ſeveral things in it, directed to the Reverend Mr. Hawes at Berwick in Suſſex, was given to a Porter, who was order'd to deliver it to Mr. Wiggins, the Lewes-Carrier, at the Talbot-Inn in Southwark, and the ſaid Box being miſſing, and ſuppoſed to be deliver'd, by Miſtake, to another Carrier, if the Porter will come and poſitively declare with whom he left it, or any one elſe give notice of it to Rich. Wilkin at the King's Head in St. Paul's Church-yard, he ſhall have 20 s. Reward.
